Here's bribery and corruption that is positively Lexow-ine. The business manager of a popular Broadway Theaire has made a list of the "douceurs" offered him during the present season, and it is quite entertaining. It includes four sets of shirt studs, a bottle of brandy, a bottle of port, a box of cigars, five cases of canned goods, a box of assorted perfumes, an umbrella, a set of cutlery, a fox terrier, a case of beer (instantly returned—ahem!) a haunch of venison, reed birds and snipe, two coccanuts, an uncut diamond, 25 cents, (returned with hauteur) one Turkish bath ticket, and one drive in the park.

Little Annie Myers, who made quite as much of a hit in London as did Lillian Russell. (and she did not have to change her dress sixteen times, either) retired into such profound seclusion after landing, that nobody could find her Saturday. Mr. Abbey was ignorant of her whereabouts, Mr. McVickar had no ideas on the subject. Mr. Abud couldn't possibly say, Mr. Mead knew her Baltimore address, Teddy Peiper had lost track of her, the property man supposed that she was somewhere in New York, "Tony" hadn't seen her, Van Houten knew a man, who knew a friends were eager to congratulate her, but they couldn't do it. A new crop of jubilee buns has arrived

List of Bribes.

That which we call a rose"—et cetera, and so forth. The "public dress rehearsal" of "Napoleon Bonaparte" at the Herald Square Theatre Saturday night, turned out to be nothing but an ordinary turned out to be nothing but an ordinary afferson. There was the first-night performance. There was the first-night performance of the English members of Miss Russell's company. The Galety first have rivals at last. That bection of Broadway between Thirt-third and Forty-second streets looked like a alice with Dekota Real Estate.

True?

John W. Wilson, the California comedian of "Little Christopher Columbus," finds the tramp mantle of Walter Jones a comfortable fit. His Weary Raggles is unique and up-to-date. "What's the latest thing out?" inquires a Midway Plaisance visitor. "Nathan Strauss, I believe." replies the tramp, and the audience shouts. Wilson is an evolution from the song and dance artist, and shared popularity with Billy Emerson, and the late Charley Reed, in San Francisco.

DR. CROWELL DEAD.

He Was a Forty-niner and Prom inent Spiritualist.

Dr. Eugene Crowell died at 5 o'clock Arms, Fifty-ninth street and Madison His sons, Charles E. Crowell and Frank Crowell, and his daughter, Mrs. John Halliday, of Nyack, N. Y., were at his bedside.

Crowell was in his seventy-ninth

Dr. Crowell was in his seventy-ninth year. His death is attributed more to general debility than to any specific disease. He began to fail in health three years ago.

Dr. Crowell was a graduate from the University of the City of New York, and for a time practised medicine. Later he entered the drug business, and in 1849 went to California. In San Francisco he became prominent in politics, was once Chief Supervisor of the city and the head of the Know-Nothing party there.

He made a fortune. He was interested in the Edison Illuminating Companies of this city and Brooklyn. Dr. Crowell was prominent as an advocate of Spiritualism. He wrote two books, "The Spirit World" and "The Identity of Primitive Christianity with Modern Spiritualism." Dr. Crowell was born in White Plains, New York, and the Presbyterian Church in Forsyth street was built for his father, the Rev. Seth Crowell.

Especially Those of Proprietary Medicines.

Are the Testimonals Used in Them Genuine?

Should People Believe in Advertised Medicines?

How rouch confidence should the public place in advertisements of medicines? Every human being is interested in this great question because it deeply concerns us all. In these times of hard work and over-evertion when almost everybody needs medicine of some kind, it is absolutely necessary that people know what to do for their tired nerves, weak bodies and discased organs. Our daily papers are constantly advertising medicines, and giving testimonials of persons who have been cured by their use. The questions arise, are these testimonials genuine? Are they exact and truthful statements made by people who have really been cured by the medicine advertised? Ther is not the slightest doubt that the majority of advertised medicines are that the majority of advertised medicines are just what they are represented to be, and that the testimeninis are perfectly reliable, being accurate statements of persons cured. From our experience, such testimon als are true and state only what are facts. We know positively that all the vast numbers of testimonials of cure published in regard to Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy are true, strictly and accurately true, and that people can and should be guided by them. for these true testimonials prove that the cures were made by this wonderful medic me, and that this remedy will cure others who take it.

Newspaper men themiselves are often cured, and often give testimonials, and no newspaper man would allow unreliable or faise testimonials. man would allow unreliable of false testimonials to be published in his paper. Thomas A. Lindsay is one of the most popular newspaper men in the country, and is connected with Albany's (N. Y.) leading morning paper. The Morning Express. He makes the following interesting statement:

"For many years I have been subject to severe mails of headers and neverthers."

tinually. Having read in the Albany Morning Express, at different times, the advertisements of Dr. Greene's Nervurs blood and nerve rem-edy. I concluded to try this remedy, and after the use of six or seven pottles, found not only relief, but a radical cure. "The headaches are a thing of the past, while the terrible nervous spells have gradually become less and loss, until now I have little or nose of them left, and my sleep is natural and refreshing. "I do not heatate in asying that this remark-

"I do not hesitate in saying that this remark-shie change is entirely due to Dr. Greene's Nervurs blood and nerve remedy, and I heartily recommend it for allments like my own, no mat-ter what the cause of them."

Dr. Greene, the discoversr of this great rem-edy, has long been the most successful specialist in the curse of servous and chronic diseases, and this grand medical discovery is the result of his snormous practice and wide experience. Every-body knows that when he makes a statement it ody knows that when he makes a statement can be depended upon, and when a testimonial of cure by Dr. Greene's Nervans blood and nerve semedy is published, our readers can be certain that every word of it is true. The persons giving the testimonials can always be seen or written to These proofs, together with the fact that the medicine cures, are the cause of its enormou sale. People know it always does just what h says it will, and they have found it to be even a more wonderful medicine than was claime

He has had many imitators, but no one has eve not a patent medicine, but the prescription of Dr reens, of 35 West 14th St., New York City, the most successful living specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. The great reputation of Dr. Greene is a guarantee that his medicine will our and the fact that he can be consulted by any one, at any time, free of charge, personally or by letter, gives absolute assurance of the beneficial action of this best of all remedies.
